

Director's Report
Springport Free Library
August 16, 2022

The library staff is in the process of winding down a successful children's summer reading program. We had lots of fun, and hopefully made some summer memories for the children. There are lots of great pictures posted to the library FaceBook page. The village board of trustees posted a note on FaceBook thanking the library for helping to bring families to the park. Also, on a nice note, the village increased their funding to us by $500.00.

The library also had a great book sale. After the weekend sale, we ran the book sale for another two weeks, and picked up some extra dollars. All in all, we made some money and moved on alot books. The book shed will really make this kind of library fund raiser much easier and more efficient. Trustee Robin Greer was able to get a bid on the shelving and ramp. The bid will be available the trustees to look at. I was able to get Saxton Electric in to, look at and prepare, a bid on installing electric and an air/heat unit and electricity. At the time of this report the electric bid is not yet in. If the bid is not ready for the board meeting, I will scan and send it to the board. Trustee Jim Young also brought color charts for the board to look over.

I have asked two possible candidates for cleaning, to let me know their prices and options for cleaning supplies. At the time of this report I have not yet heard from either person. If I get any figures I will email, or answers I will email to the board.

On a sad note, the family of Linda Tanner asked for contributions, in her name, to be sent to the library. Linda was an avid reader and very vocal supporter of the library. She always told everyone how much she liked her local library. Linda will be sorely missed. Board president Christy Cooper will handle the acknowledgement notes.

Respectfully submitted,

Carla Piperno-Jones, director
